Council asks SA Government to rezone part of Northfield

The City of Port Adelaide Enfield at its March 10th Strategic Planning & Development Policy Committee Meeting agreed to write to the Minister for Planning to ask for him to look at a review of the zoning in a portion of Northfield, known as a Development Plan Amendment Report (DPA).

I shall continue to use the word 'rezoning' as that is what most people understand it as.

This newsletter is designed to update residents and businesses of Northfield and to allow informal participation in the process via your local Councillor.

Formal consultation either by Council or the State Government will occur if the Planning Minister approves further investigation of Council's rezoning proposal.

What's being proposed?

Basically, what Council is proposing is that the current Light Industry zoned properties at 24-28 Briens Road and 717 Grand Junction Road are to be rezoned to a combination of "retail and medium density residential uses".
