Proposed suburb renaming - Lightsview - Tell us what you think

Council is considering renaming the area bounded by Hampstead Road, Folland Avenue, Fosters Road and Redward Avenue to 'Lightsview'. The proposal would require a portion of Northgate and Northfield, and a small portion of Greenacres (north of Redward Avenue) to be renamed 'Lightsview'. A map showing the proposed boundary change is provided on the reverse of this letter.

The proposed suburb renaming and realignment is proposed on the basis that:

- The current boundaries for the suburbs of Northgate and Northfield for the Lightsview development are disorderly. A boundary realignment more consistent with the main roads would make the area more easily identifiable by emergency services and the general community.
- As suburbs, Northgate and Northfield are already large and unusually shaped, and this can pose problems in regard to locating addresses. This is particularly relevant for emergency services, public transport and Australia Post, as well as general public navigation.
- The Lightsview development has created approximately 900 new dwellings to date, and is anticipated to create a total of just under 3,000 dwellings on completion.
- The name "Lightsview" was selected by the developer, CIC Australia, based on the sites geographic proximity to the City of Adelaide, planned by Colonel William Light, and in particular the framed view of the City from "City View Boulevard".

Enclosed is a letter from the State Government Surveyor-General indicating factors taken into account when making a decision to rename a suburb and the responsibilities of the Surveyor-General, Council and affected residents, land owners and businesses if the proposed name change proceeds.
